Russians Agree To Talk World Peace With West

Soviet Press Answers Eisenhower

Calls for Serious, Business-Like Talks On Disputed Issues

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union agreed today to business-like discussions with the West on the great con ve - troubling peace but flatly rejected what appeared to be some conditions laid down by President Eisenhower.

The Russian agreement was outlined in a statement carried across the entire front pages of Moscow's principal newspapers—Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, and Izvestia, the organ of the Supreme Soviet.

The Soviet government will welcome any step of the American government or any other government if it is directed at the friendly settlement of difficult questions," the statement said.

"This is evidence," it continued, "of the readiness of the Soviet side for serious business-like discussions of outstanding problems."

The statement added that the Russians would participate in direct conversations and, when necessary, in negotiations through the United Nations.

Team of 55 Offer Advice, Report Aid Needed in Far East

Spring Test Series Continues

Describe A-Bomb Blast As Brilliant, Powerful

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—One of the spring series most brilliant and powerful atomic bombs exploded with golden brilliance before dawn today as 16 congressmen and 2,650 troops from all over the nation looked on.

Shortly after the blast, touched off from a 300-foot tower at 4:30 a. m. PST troops climbed from their trenches 4,000 yards from ground zero and advanced in a tactical maneuver.

The shot, at the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat test site 75 miles northwest, was a thing which broke a downtown store window.

Besides the spectatcular flash, which rivaled last week's beauty, observers were treated to an unusual cloud formation. As the cloud shot upward a succession of dazzling white icecaps formed on its top. Two of these spread outward around the soaring mushroom stem, forming a double collar effect.

The troop maneuver in this, the seventh explosion of the series, was one of the largest ever held at the proving ground.

As blast preparations were made Friday, a Defense Department

Reds Keep Promise; Full Dress Truce Talks Set to Reopen

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Another 100 Allied prisoners—including a bonus number of Americans, British and Turks — were freed today as the Communists kept their promise to continue the exchange of sick and wounded captives beyond the original limit.

The Reds said they would free 13 more Americans and 71 disabled South Koreans tomorrow as truce negotiators return to this neutral zone for the first full dress armistice talks since last Oct. 8.

Seventeen Americans, four British, four Turks and 75 South Koreans came back today, bringing the total to the 600 the Reds said they would exchange in six days. But of the total:

136 were Americans—16 more than promised.

32 were British—12 more than promised.

15 were Turks—equal to the number of non-Koreans the Reds said they would exchange aside from British and Americans.

17 others included men from Colombia, Australia, Canada, South Africa, Greece, The Philippines and The Netherlands.

400 were South Koreans.

Both sides have said they would continue the exchange beyond the 600 originally pledged by the Reds and the 5,800 promised by the U. N. Command.

Neither side has said how many more it will trade, but some observers have speculated the exchange could go on indefinitely.

The U. N. Command proposed Friday that sick and wounded be

Report More Than 2,300 Died

Americans Tell of Grim Life in Red Stockades

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—Two American soldiers who endured more than two years of misery as prisoners of the Communists told today how more than 2,300 comrades died of exhaustion, hunger and wounds in two North Korean stockades.

M. Sgt. Gilbert Christie, 42, of Montezuma, Ind., said "much over 50 per cent" of 3,000 prisoners in his camp died during the winter of 1950-51.

Cpl. John L. Watters Jr. of Beckley, W. Va., said 800 out of 1,500 United Nations captives died in Camp No. 5 at Pyoktong between April 1, 1951, and August, 1952.

Most of the 17 Americans, four British and four Turks released by the Reds today looked fairly strong. A few walked haltingly. One Yank saw the sign "Freedom Village" here and hurled his crutches away in joy.

Christie described a bitter march as a captive in the winter of 1950:

"I, myself, was one of the fortunate ones. I collapsed and passed out and rode the rest of the day on a cow. I had two wounds—fragment in the chest and a broken arm—and I needed help from one of the fellows who kept me balanced on top of the cow."

Watters said treatment of prisoners did not improve "until the last three months."

He was wounded in the leg, hip and stomach near Kunu Nov. 26, 1950, and was taken to a Korean hut 50 miles north of the city.

"They started bringing in more wounded until there were 24 altogether within two weeks," he related. "Many of the wounded died. In fact, out of the 24, only three are living."

Allied planes strafed the area, he said, since there were no markings to show that U. N. captives

Fetty said the lieutenant, who probably saved his life, was named "Denny Denmark" and was alive and well when he last saw him Jan. 15, 1952.

Fetty was wounded in the shoulder and head by a burp gun slug and his legs were paralyzed. The lieutenant was not wounded.

"I told him to get off but he said he was my platoon leader," Fetty related. "I told him they entitled solely "On the Address of President Eisenhower," it seemed clear from the wording that it was correct to call the article a statement by the leadership of the Soviet Union.

It was clearly and definitely an answer to Eisenhower's April 16 speech.

(In that address, the President challenged the new Soviet government to prove its peace overtures by agreeing to global disarmament and taking concrete steps to end the tensions that threaten World War III.

(Eisenhower said the first step toward peace must be the establishment of an honorable armistice in Korea, followed by political discussions leading to free elections in a United Korea. He also called for an end to Red aggression in Indochina and Malaya, and Austrian peace treaty, unification of Germany and independence for the East European satellites of Russia.)

(In Washington today, White House press secretary James A. Hagerty said there would be no comment until the full Pravda statement has been received by the U. S. government.)

The Soviet statement sharply attacked some things Eisenhower said and many things that U. S. Secretary of State Dulles has said

BRT Calls Off Rail Strike Again

CLEVELAND (AP)—For the second time in a month, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen today cancelled a strike of 2,300 members against the Nickel Plate Road and its Wheeling & Lake Erie division.

Friday midnight, six hours before the strike deadline, Common Pleas Judge Adrian D. Newcomb issued a temporary injunction restraining the walkout which would have idled 16,000 employes of the 2,200-mile rail system operating in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York.

The order Judge Newcomb signed at his home declared the BRT could not lawfully cause a work stoppage until 30 days after an emergency board appointed by President Eisenhower makes its recommendations. The restrainer said this delay was required by the railway labor act and also that a strike would violate the brotherhood's contract with the railroad.

given complete control over all foreign aid programs and that the existing Mutual Security Agency be abolished.

These views have been given to MSA Director Harold Stassen as part of a 4,000-word confidential report following an on-the-spot survey of foreign aid operations in 14 countries.

Clarence Francis, chairman of the board of General Foods Corp., was the task force director of the business group which undertook the survey at Stassen's request.

The report concludes that American grant aid has accomplished its purpose of bettering economic conditions in Europe. A substantial cutback is recommended for nearly all countries, except West Berlin and divided Austria.

The United States Congress appropriated $1,282,000,000 for defense support assistance to Western European nations for the 12 month

Taft Counts On Tax Support By Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leader Taft said today he expects Democratic support if the Eisenhower administration seeks to continue present high taxes temporarily in its efforts to balance the budget.

And Sen. Russell of Georgia, one of the most influential Democratic senators, said in an interview:

"If the President takes the lead in the matter, it is my judgment that a majority of the Democratic senators will give the administration the tax measures necessary to maintain the revenue yield where it is."

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas last Sunday endorsed as "just common sense" President Eisenhower's plan to bring a balanced budget in view before cutting taxes.

The Treasury reported yesterday its tax receipts for the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1952, totaled 68½ billion dollars.

Calling this "encouraging," Taft said continued receipts at this rate would make it easier for the Republicans to balance the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Former President Truman estimated income for that fiscal year at $68,665,000,000, taking into account provisions of law by which the excess profits tax would end July 1 and individual income taxes would go down 10 per cent on Jan. 1.

Taft said the new administration soon will know whether those or similar taxes would be needed to balance spending.

"It will depend largely on the military budget requests made by the President," the Ohioan said.

Observers at the control tower, where the congressmen were stationed, 10 miles from ground zero, said the shock wave at their vantage point was the strongest of the series. It broke light bulbs and window panes in outbuildings.

The flash was seen as far away as San Francisco—600 miles distant.

A Navy AD-2 Skyraider drone plane, flown into the churning atomic cloud, crashed. Such craft carry instruments to obtain scientific data, which is relayed to the ground by radio.

Fifty-two aircraft, including six B-47 Stratojets and six B-50's, were in the air on various missions.

The Army maneuver was conducted by two combat teams of 1,200 men each. With them in the trenches were 250 military observers. And in trenches an undisclosed distance closer to ground zero were eight officer volunteer observers.

The Army said there were no casualties.

FALLS FROM CAR, KILLED

ZANESVILLE, O. — James Eugene Smiht, 22-year-old Pennsylvania Railroad freight handler, was killed today. He was thrown from an automobile on U. S. 22 near Zanesville's south limts.

Police held William Dunn with out charge. Dunn, who said he swerved to avoid a car that stopped in front of him and then struck a railroad crossing sign, and Fred DeCoursey, a passenger, escaped serious injury.

2nd Marion Man Wounded In Action

Word that their son, Pfc. Charles Sharp, was wounded April 17 in action in Korea, was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. Clurid E. Sharp of 601 E. George St.

The message was in the form of a telegram from the office of the Secretary of the Army and was signed by William E. Bergin.

It listed his injury as a "flesh wound of the face by artillery fire when his position was attacked by opposing forces," and said his mail is to be directed to his APO number and address "in care of the hospital directory section."

In Korea four months, Pfc. Sharp, 21, received his basic training at Ft. Riley, Kan., and was sent overseas just before Christmas, last year, being aboard ship during the holidays.

OXFORD, O. (AP)—Police officers, aided by Miami University students, trudged over a large wooded area near Fisher Hall today in a search for Roger H. Tammen Jr., 19, of Maple Heights, who has not been seen since about 8 p.m. Sunday.

Fisher Hall is near a wooded area at the edge of the Miami campus. A spokesman said authorities have no information the youth met with any mishap but they believed it best to make a thorough search of the area.

Tammen's father is an insurand clerk for the Grand Lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Trainmen and Firemen in Cleveland. Another son, Richard, is a freshman at Miami.

were held there.

"They strafed us about a dozen times. I was grazed slightly in the back by a bullet."

Cpl. John King, 29, of Orlanda, Fla., said he was captured April 25, 1951, but did not get into a prison camp until December, 1951.

He said it was two months before he received any medical treatment. He said he had been hit in the back, hip and stomach by shrapnel.

"All my operations were done by guesswork," he said. "They felt me with their fingers and if it sounded all right they said, 'we will cut here.' "

Airman 2-C William R. Hilycord of Columbus, Ind., a B26 gunner, one of three airmen returned by the Reds, stayed nine months in the camp hospital at Pyoktong.

Asked if the Communists accused him of germ warfare, he replied: "I was knocked down before that fictitious stuff started."

He said the men in the camp think the germ warfare charges "silly."

Pfc. Thomas Fetty of Fairmont, W. Va., told of a heroic second lieutenant who stuck with him when he was wounded on Jackson Heights.

Bucyrus, Mansfield Men Plead Guilty To Embezzlement

CLEVELAND (AP)—Four persons, including a Mansfield man, pleaded guilty in Federal Court Friday to embezzlement charges.

They are Burner McKinley Banks, 55.; assistant cashier of the Mansfield Savings Trust National Bank; Robert Skaggs, 28. a teller for the Farmers and Citizens Bank & Savings Co. of Bucyrus: Mrs. Mary L. Calogero, assistant treasurer of the Hauserman Employes Federal Credit Union here; and John Krejsa, 48, treasurer of Our Lady of Good Counsel Paris Federal Credit Union here.

Frank E. Steel, an assistant U. S. attorney, said all but Mrs. Calogero have made full restitutions, and she has made substantial repayments and intends to replay all of the money she is accused of taking.

Banks, with the Mansfield bank since 1918, was charged in connection with thefts from the bank amounting to $3,600 over a two-year period. He is married and the father of two children.

Skaggs was accused of being responsible for shortages of about $1,200 in the Bucyrus bank. Mrs. Calogero was blamed for a $1,000 shortage in the funds of the Hauserman credit union. Krejsa was charged with responsibility for shortages totaling $2,500 over a two-year period in the church credit union.

Stall Tidelands Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind-Ore) became the new champ of the Senate marathon talkers at 6:04 a. m. today.

In an iron-man performance to dramatize the fight against the bill to establish state ownership of the oil-rich submerged coastal lands, he began a speech at 11:40 a. m. yesterday and was still going early today.

Vice President Nixon arrived at 8:25 a. m. to relieve Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) who had presided through the night. Morse wished Nixon "good morning" and kept going. At 8:40 he entered on his 22nd hour of talking.

The wiry Senator, 51, admittedly weary but giving no hint of quitting, hung up a new Senate record by talking his way past marks that had been set by the late Robert LaFollette Sr. and Huey Long.

LaFollete, Wisconsin Progressive, held the Senate floor for 18 hours, 23 minutes in 1908 in a battle over a currency bill, but numerous time-consuming quorum calls cut several hours of his speaking time.

Second only to LaFollete was Long—the Louisiana Kingfish. He set the mark of 15 hours 35 minutes in 1935 with a debate over a National Industrial Recovery extension bill.

Long has been credited with more of an endurance feat than LaFollette because, records show, he was not spelled by any quorum calls.

At 6:45 a. m. Morse embarked on a new speech, dealing with rural electrification.

Robinson Pleads Guilty, Gets Life

DELAWARE, O. (AP)—Robert B. Robinson Jr., 25, of Columbus, was sentenced to life in Ohio Penitentiary today after he pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the suicide pact death of a 17-year-old girl.

Common Pleas Judge O. W. Whitney pronounced the sentence soon after the Columbus man changed his pleas. Robinson pleaded innocent to first-degree murder April 16.

Robinson was indicted on charges of premeditated murder and premeditated murder by the administration of carbon monoxide gas in the death of Miss Chelsea Joyce Halley of Columbus, March 30.

Robinson led police to the body, saying he and the girl had a suicide pact but that he woke up from the effects of carbon monoside gas.

Baum and his daughter died of fractured skulls; and Houck a broken neck. McTurmas died of a broken neck also.

Houck's body was taken to the Lutz Funeral Home; Baum's to the Muntz Funeral Home; and the three-year-old girl's and McTurmas' to the Wise Funeral Home, all in Bucyrus.

NATO To Add 2,700 Planes, 10 Divisions

PARIS (AP)—Ministers from the 14 North Atlantic Treaty Nations ended their spring meeting today by voting to boost NATO's air strength by 2,700 war planes and its ground forces by 10 divisions, an aide reported.

The foreign, defense and finance ministers wound up their three-day meeting, at which they approved a costly military equipment program and pledged to remain on guard despite Soviet peace hints, by arranging to meet again in October

The new plane program will boost NATO'S air strength to a total of 5,600 planes by the end of 1954.

The additional aircraft will include trainers as well as jet and all-weather fighters.

The 10 new divisions, four of them intended to be ready to fight an dsix of them in reserve, will increase NATO's land forces to 60 divisions.

Joseph Bech, Luxembourg foreign minister, said he and the other five ministers who have signed the European Army treaty will meet here May 12 to begin their study of the proposed six nation political authority.

Yanks Smash Red Assault

SEOUL (AP)—Grim U. S. infantrymen, using bayonets, rifle butts and hand grenades, cut down about one-third of a 500 to 750-man Communist force that smashed against Allied lines in Central Korea today.

Fifty Chinese attackers who jumped into the American trenches were wiped out. In all, nearly 200 Reds were killed or wounded in three hours of bloody fighting, the Eighth Army said.

The rest of the Red attack force scurried for cover under withering fire from the 3rd U. S. Infantry Division.

The Reds hit an American outpost and nearby main line position just east of Jackson Heights about midnight.

City publisher gives country boy chance

Attached to the crudely written manuscript a note read, "If my song is worth publishing I would appreciate having a flute in exchange for it." Publisher George Frederick Root went out to buy the best flute in Chicago. Sending the instrument to the poverty-stricken youth in Clearfield County, Penn., he attached a note to the effect that if the young man wanted a job with the firm of Root & Cady there was one waiting for him.

In less than 10 years the self-trained composer, who had worked at a county sawmill for $10 a month, was directing music at Chicago's First Congregational Church and editing song books, one of which netted him $30,000 in royalties—which he promptly gave to charity.

Came 1870 and tall, handsome, 32-year-old, six-foot Baritone Philip Bliss was the most sought-after singer and composer of gospel songs in America. Tens of thousands of penetents marched down the sawdust trail while he sang for Evangelists D. Whittle and Dwight L. Moody.

One night, in Chicago, after hearing a sermon on "Man's Love For God," Bliss reversed the theme and, while his wife fixed breakfast next morning, wrote "Jesus Loves Even Me." Hearing Moody tell the story of a shipwreck on Lake Erie, because of faulty lights at a lighthouse, he came up with "Let The Lower Lights Be Burning." Waiting for a train in Ohio, Bliss slipped into a church and heard the preacher say, "To be almost saved is to be entirely lost." Almost Persuaded" was as good as written.

Hold the Fort

IN OCTOBER, 1864, Union Gen. Sherman poised in northwest Georgia for his March to the Sea. In an effort to block the Federals, Confederate Gen. Hood stormed Altoona Pass. The outnumbered Union garrison was near destruction when an officer caught sight of a signal flag atop Kenesaw Mountain. It waved, "Hold the fort. I am coming. W. T. Sherman."

The rest is history. Evangalist D. W. Whittle had been a major in Sherman's army. He told the story at a religious service at Rockford, Ill., where Bliss was singing in 1870. Like most of his songs, Bliss wrote both words and music for "Hold The Fort" in a few minutes.

On Dec. 29, 1876, a trunk was salvaged from a train wreck in which a hundred people burned to death near Ashtabula, Ohio. Philip Bliss had crawled free of the burning coaches but, unable to locate his wife, fought back through the flames. He was 38 years old.

When the trunk was opened there was found, among other things, a small piece of paper on which was scribbled an unfinished hymn. It began, "I know not what awaits me. God kindly veils my eyes—." Perhaps, too, there was also in the trunk a flute.

Here is the hymn Philip Bliss wrote after hearing Maj. Whittle's story of Sherman's dramatic message. But this, and many another great gospel songs, would have never been written had not a big hearted music publisher given a country boy a chance.

Ho, my comrades! see the signal
Waving in the sky!
Reinforcements now appearing,
Victory is nigh.

See the mighty advancing
Satan leading on;
Mighty men around us falling,
Courage almost gone!

See the glorious banner waving!
Hear the trumpet blow!
In our Leader's name we triumph
Over every foe.

Fierce and long the battle rages,
But our help is near;
Onward comes our great Commander,
Cheer, my comrades, cheer!

(Chorus)

"Hold the fort, for I am coming,"
Jesus signals still;
Wave the answer back to heaven,
"By Thy grace we will."

Nearer, My God, to Thee

A Sermonette

By THE REV. HOWARD L. OLEWILER
Pastor of First Presbyterian Church

All Christendom is familiar with this hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," Mrs. Sarah Flower Adams, (1840) is struggling for what was the supreme aspiration of all the patriarchs, all the prophets and all the apostles, and for what has been the longing of the noblest spirits and saints of all ages, namely to see God's face. And this hymn reveals that this yearning is fully realized through the Cross of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

It is somewhat unfortunate that such a hymn is so generally associated with funerals; for there is no flavor of the Nunc Dimittis here. It is the prayer for a Presence. It is not the longing for a fellowship with those who have gone before, but rather an experience in the fellowship of God who is now. There is no thought of death; but of life, of forgiveness, of victory. It is the portrait of a life which is not willing to be left by itself, but is striving ever for a companionship with God.

The general theme of this hymn could have been titled — "An Aspiration for the Divine Presence."

Stanza 1, "The Cross of Christ." In this stanza Mrs. Adams shows the struggle in the human soul at its height. It exhibits a battle with sin. It describes a longing for forgiveness. Who can forget that scene in Jacob's life upon which this hymn is based? Jacob with cunning took away the birthright from his brother Esau. For fear of his life he was driven from his home. That first evening away from home he found himself in the vicinity of Bethel. He has no tent for shelter, no fire for warmth, no pillow for rest, and no friend but loneliness. The scenes of the home haunted his memory and the tragedy of his falsehood grew lurid in the growing dusk of the night. Around his heart there played uncertain emotions and he felt keenly the pressure of a strange Presence near. Lonely, blackness of the night and a strange feeling that God was there, brought forth the realization that he had sinned through treachery and deceit and wrongly earned the birthright. He prayed for forgiveness.

What song can raise us out of the depths of sin and misery? What experience can dispel the loneliness of sin? It is the hymn of redemption. It is the sacrifice of Calvary. It is the blood of atonement. We agree with Mrs. Adams, the first step is realizing the Presence of God must be that Cross which raises us out of sin into song, which lifts up our spirits and thrills us with a sense of the divine.

Stanza 2, "The Reality of Sin." Think of Jacob out on the bleak moorland of Bethel, that desolate and unpeopled waste studded here and there with large sheets of rock. In his soul the true light of eternal day had vanished. In his heart he felt the darkness of sin and treachery. His body and mind were weary. Truly, his rest was a stone. But there was still an aspiration, still memories of God's forgiveness, still hopes and longings, still dreams of a restored fellowship, of that life where sin is lost in the redeeming influence of God's presence.

"Darkness be over me. My rest a stone; yet in my dreams I'd be, Nearer to God." He longs and dreams of God's love and forgiveness. Let us ever keep alive those dreams which will bring us nearer to God. Never stop dreaming and longing for God therein is our hope and salvation.

Stanza 3, "The Medium of Grace." It was in this dream of hope that the way of mercy appeared unto Jacob. It seemed to him as if the huge slabs of limestone had come together and built themselves into a gigantic staircase, stretching from the spot where he lay until it was lost in the starry depths above. Truly, steps to heaven. Then, out of that desolate region there arose multitudes of angels, ascending and descending. Jacob's ladder was the mercy given: Angels to beckon me, Nearer my God to Thee."

Thank God. The Lord of all angels came down the bright stairs to the earth in His incarnation, lived among us— taught us the love of His Father—died for our sins—and finally ascended those stairs to glory and now at the right hand of God making intercession for us at the throne of grace where our sins are lost in the rightousness of the High Priest; Jesus Christ our Lord.

Stanzas 4 and 5. "The Song of Victory." In these last two stanzas Mrs. Adams writes her song of joy and praise, her sob of victory. Here Jacob's desert of desolation and sin has reached into the very portals of heaven. His stony slabs of grief have become an altar of sacrifice, a Bethel, a House of God and there dawned within Jacob's soul a new sense of God's presence as an abiding fact. It is a new conviction. It is a new triumph. Stony griefs and distressing woes are turned into praise. Sun, moon and stars are lost in the light of God's radiance. At last his heart is overflowing with song as he enjoys the refreshing nearness of God. Truly, the very gate of heaven.

All of us are able to experience this spiritual pilgrimage. If we keep alive this aspiration for the Divine Presence of God we too, like Jacob will ultimately find a song and victory to grace our lives.

Wednesday night, the topic will be "The Ministry of the Church," with lesson from the book of Acts. Trustees will meet Wednesday at 8:30 p.m., following the midweek service. A meeting of the Youth Fellowship will be held Thursday night.

Most of us are so constituted that we can never be happy about the problems that face us until they are solved. That's human nature! That's life! And that's why we all realize that it doesn't pay to apply a "do it tomorrow" attitude to life's most serious problems. Death is one of these—and it's always an extremely painful experience for our loved ones when arrangements for burial have to be made after it strikes. It is the acute obligation of each of us to provide an estate for family burial ahead of need, while we are in a financial position to secure it. Do it today . . . tomorrow may be too late.

Confident Living

Secret Of Power Over Weaknesses

By Norman Vincent Peale

At a recent luncheon, I sat next to the president of a small steel company. We talked about a number of things and I found him most interesting. Finally, he said to me, "Really, you and I are in businesses which aren't too different."

"How?" I asked.

"Well," he replied, "I make steel for people and you put steel into people."

He went on to illustrate his point by telling me about a man whom he called his "most difficult personnel problem." The man was, he said, the best man with a slide rule who had ever worked for him. But he had a weakness, a serious weakness. He was an alcoholic and far gone in his illness.

DR. PEALE

"I was forced to let him go a half dozen times," the president told me, "for drunkenness and neglect of his duties, but I hired him back every time. His ability was so extraordinary that I was willing to make a good many allowances to hold him. But finally it became just too much. And then it occurred to me that there was a laboratory just down my street where they specialize in such cases. And that laboratory was my own church."

So he sent this man to see his pastor and the pastor worked with him. Other people in the church helped, particularly two men who stuck with him drunk or sober. There were difficulties, failures and discouragements, but finally they succeeded in helping this alcoholic to get free from his trouble. Whatever the missing ingredient in his personality had been, the ingredient which prevented him from being strong and fighting against his weaknesses it had been supplied. "You see," my friend said, as he finished his story, "you do more than make steel—you put steel into people. Isn't it a wonderful thing that men can go to a church and find the secret of power over their weaknesses?" he concluded.

WELL, NATURALLY, I was no more power over you.

ONCE YOU HAVE made up your mind, you have made a beginning. But you will need help if you are to continue strong. By admitting your weakness to yourself, you have started the process of becoming strong. Faith will help you believe you can overcome it. That will make you stronger still. The practice of faith drives off negative attitudes and summons powerful positive forces to your aid.

With the admission of your weakness and faith that you can overcome it, pray for guidance, go to your church, and in this way you will find the help you need. Give your problems to God and believe that as His power flows through your life you can become strongest where you are now weakest. That's an amazing thing, but thrilled by this story and have thought about it a good deal since then. The characterization made by the steel man of the church as a laboratory for giving people strength is an accurate one. In my own church, I can list the names of scores of people who found strength enough there to conquer their weaknesses. I remember how weak they were, how defeated, how utterly hopeless—until they found that priceless ingredient of strength which the church offers.

It makes no difference what weaknesses any one of us may have, how long we have suffered from them, or how long we have struggled against them, we can find power over our weaknesses. The Bible describes people who find this power in some wonderful words: "Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong. . . ."

Here is a simple but effective method of attack on weaknesses. First, want, really want, to lick them. Then make up your mind that you are going to conquer your weaknesses right now. And that decisive mental attitude is the beginning of the end of your failures. Once you have made that decision, once you really want personal victory, you are the master of your own fate. Then spiritual techniques can operate in you and soon the weaknesses will have it's true. I have seen it happen in case after case.

Start now, today, to win your victory over all your weaknesses.

County Man Gains Reputation As Brilliant Young Pianist

Theodore Rehl, graduate student and assistant professor of the Oberlin College conservatory of music and son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rehl of near Marion, will appear with the Amherst Symphony Orchestra, Amherst, N. Y., as a guest soloist Sunday.

On Monday night, he will play at Buffalo, N. Y.

With the Amherst musicians, the young pianist will play Beethoven's "Concerto in C Minor, Opus 37" for piano and orchestra. His concert Monday night is being sponsored by the Oberlin Club of Western New York, an Oberlin alumni group, as a benefit recital to aid the college scholarship fund.

He is being recognized in his Buffalo appearance as "one of the most brilliant pianists ever to graduate from the Oberlin Conservatory." Last year he was graduated from Oberlin with the highest honors the conservatory gives.

Recently he tied for top place in piano in the nation at the National Federation of Music Clubs auditions in New York City, playing in the finals at Town Hall, having entered the competition for the experience of playing before 15 of the nation's outstanding music critics who were the judges. He went to the national event from the state finals. The winning musician was entered in other classification than piano work.

A graduate of Galion High School in 1948, he was graduated from

THEODORE REHL

Oberlin last year, receiving the award made by the faculty for the most talented member of the senior class. March 23, this year, he gave his graduation recital which is required for earning the master's degree. He plans to continue his graduate studies next winter. Besides assisting in the conservatory as a part time member of the teaching staff, he has piano pupils from throughout the section of the Oberlin vicinity.

His parents, and friends from Upper Sandusky, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Woodburn, also formerly of Galion, plan to attend the concert in which he will appear at Amherst Sunday afternoon.

Takes Hasty Look Behind Iron Curtain

Alliance Woman Tells of Experiences On Trip to Russia

ALLIANCE, O. (AP)—Loudspeakers scattered at strategic spots about the Russia - Polish border town of Brest-Litovsk, and predominence of the military impressed an Ohio woman who made a recent visit to Moscow.

Says Mrs. Martha M. Hoiles, writing for the Alliance Review about her recent trip to Russia with a group of American news paper and radio people:

"Since we had about six hours in Brest-Litovsk, we took advantage of the opportunity to walk through the city. As we left the station a loudspeaker was playing "LaDonna e Mobile." The strains of the lovely aria from Rigoletto were wedged between blatant announcements and propaganda.

"As we walked through the cobblestone streets of this border town between Russia and Poland, I was impressed by the fact that loudspeakers were placed at strategic points throughout the entire area.

"What element struck you most forcibly in this important town of Brest-Litovsk?" The predominance of the military. There were soldiers everywhere. They dominated the railroad station, they stood in curious groups outside. They slouched in slovenly abandonment over the fences guarding the new construction at the depot. They watched you as you walked around the town up and down the cobblestone streets. They were predominant and they were everywhere.

"We left the confines of Mother Russia and went into the bordering satellites. A feeling of being soon again in the atmosphere of the free world made us forget that we were still within the Soviet perimeter. It was brought back to us rather forcibly, for as we passed the check point into Poland came the only rigorous inspection that was ours during the entire journey.

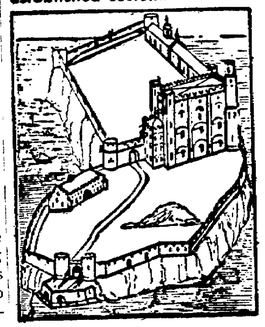
The guards took the films of the cameras that were in view and thoroughly searched our compartments on the Blue Express. Our passports were out of our hands and in the possession of the Polish guards for an hour and a half. That green passport to the world of freedom as we know it was eagerly repossessed by me and I wanted never to let it pass from my hands again if that were possible.

"On through Lidice, that Polish

CROWN CAVALCADE No. 6

No. 6: Henry II (of Anjou). Ruled England 1154-1189.

Born: 1133, son of Geoffrey Plantagenet, Count of Anjou, who was the second husband of Matilda, daughter of Henry I. Henry II's coronation was one of the most spectacular of early times. Its celebrants hailed a ruler whose domain, by the inheritance of his mother's and father's possessions and by those of his marriage to Eleanor of Aquitaine, extended not only over England, but also over a large part of France. Later he was also to dominate the Scots and for a short period the Irish. Henry's was a reign of progress in law and administration. Trial by jury became an established custom. New national currency was introduced. The military was reorganized. Difficulties with Archbishop Thomas a' Becket over subjection of the clergy to ordinary law led to the murder of the latter and forced penance by Henry. He himself died in the course of a struggle with his son Richard I.



A Norman castle. Henry II forced many of these fortresses to be pulled down, to strengthening his power.

Henry II, crowned at 21. First of the Angevin, or Plantagenet, kings. [←] Henry II is flailed by monks, as a penance for the murder of Archbishop Becket. Henry thus avoided papal interdict.

MONDAY: Richard the Lionhearted

"As we rode from the area of the Iron Curtain past the flood of refugese, fleeing in the East Zone and into the security of West Berlin, I could only remember the words in a famous utterance of Teddy Roosevelt, realizing how very pertinent they were today: 'Walk softly but carry a big stick.'"

Police Guard On Edington Is Removed

$2,000 Bond Posted For His Appearance In Municipal Court

A 24-hour a day police guard on Howard Earl Edington, 23, stabbing victim charged with breaking and entering and attempted rape was removed Friday at Marion City Hospital.

Acting Police Chief Clyde Hardin said the guard was removed after Marion Municipal Court Judge W. Dexter Hazen approved a $2,000 property bond to insure Edington's appearance in court for an arraignment on the two charges.

The bond was put up by Edington's father and mother Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Edington of 358 Milburn Ave.

Tentative date for a preliminary hearing on the two charges was set for May 26.

Edington is reported in "fair" condition at Marion City Hospital today and may be released within the next few days.

He was found stabbed in three places and in critical condition early Easter Sunday by police.

Three days later police arrested him in his room at the hospital on charges filed by Robert A. Lovell, husband of the 17-year-old girl Edington allegedly attempted to rape at her residence at Apt. A., 974 Bryant S.

Mrs. Lovell told police she had stabbed a man when he attempted to attack her in the bedroom at her residence about 5 a.m. April 5. Mrs. Lovell was alone in the house at the time. Her husband was at work.

SAVINGS and LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

Not all of us possess the will power to do the things that prove to be in our own best interest, unless we enjoy the encouragement of our neighbors and friends. It is proverbial that we accomplish more by working together than by following individual paths.

The total of many small savings accounts provide a lending fund for one family. Loan payments plus additional savings will accommodate another borrower. Constant repetition of this plan causes it to grow in scope until it is one of the strongest financial forces possible with each member helping the other.

From a Real Expert

When John L. Lewis speaks on the status of unionism in the United States, he is a real expert.

No other man has a better claim to fundamental knowledge about organized labor than the old miner who has presided over the development of collective bargaining in the last 20 years.

When Mr. Lewis tells Congress, therefore, that he believes all labor laws passed in that period should be repealed, turning back the clock to an era in which unions were secure from anti-trust action, indiscriminate use of injunctions against their interests and had no other laws to consider, he deserves to be listened to attentively.

He knows that the clock can't be turned back. What has been done cannot be undone. But he knows that unionism has not profited from its too-close association with politics.

Instead of finding their natural level in relation to management, both unionism and management have played into the hands of politicians. They have sacrificed their self-reliance and independence of action to the great illusion of the 20th century — that one more law, or another batch of ammendments to existing laws, will fix everything.

John L. Lewis, the last of the great labor leaders who can remember the way things were before the politicians moved in, thinks they'd better have been kept out.

Was he giving testimony before a congressional committee or making a confession before the country when he said so?

Industry Speedier but Safer

The fact that American industrial operations have achieved tremendous advancement in speed and efficiency is generally known, but it's altogether likely that a great many people are not aware that although production has mounted steadily to new high figures in rapidity and volume, the process has become vastly safer for men and women doing the work.

"Left Wing" Hypocrisy

By David Lawrence

No Outcry Made Over Smear of Bridges

This is the story of a smear of a United States senator which seems to have been overlooked by the "left wingers" who are constantly crying out that innocent persons are victimized by congressional committees. For here is a case which the organs of the "left wing" have not seen fit to handle fairly or to denounce or even to inquire into in order to get all the facts.

A few days ago the newspapers carried headlines saying Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, had been "linked" to an investigation of a federal judge.

The statement was widely published that Mr. Bridges had recommended to Lowell Mayberry, a Boston lawyer, that Henry Grunewald be employed by John L. Lewis and the Miners' Union to investigate the late Judge Goldsborough.

These same dispatches contained references to Mr. Bridges as a trustee of the United Mine Workers' Pension Fund and the inference was plain that the New Hampshire senator was an associate of Mr. Lewis and also a participant in the process by which a federal judge, who had pending before him a case involving the United Mine Workers, was investigated.

What are the facts?

First of all, Sen. Bridges has stated flatly that he did not recommend Grunewald to the Mine Workers' attorney, Mr. Mayberry, and had no connection at all with the investigation of the judge.

Second, the New Hampshire senator was not appointed a trustee of the United Mine Workers' Pension Fund until 1948. The contempt case involving the Miners' Union and the inquiry into Judge Goldsborough's life had been disposed of two years before. Sen. Bridges states that he had only a nodding acquaintance with Mr. Lewis in 1946 when the case was up before Judge Goldsborough.

It would have been easy enough to establish these facts if the "left wing" organs which pontificate so frequently about alleged injury to innocent persons had chosen to verify them.

It so happens that Mr. Mayberry himself has testified under oath before the House Judiciary Investigating Committee corroborating the statement of Sen. Bridges that the senator did not introduce Grunewald to John L. Lewis. Mayberry testified he knew Grunewald at least a year and a half before the Mine Workers case arose.

Grunewald was well known in

Now it often happens that newspapers cannot reach persons on the same day they figure in controversies in the news.

The critics who have arisen recently to charge newspapers with "one-sidedness" by pointing to omissions in particular issues of newspapers simply do not know or they ignore the pressures of time under which news is gathered, so that conceivably all sides of a controversy of this kind are not available in the same 24 hours.

Newspapers, therefore, cannot be blamed for printing the fact that Grunewald had mentioned in his testimony that, according to his recollection — which has since been proved faulty — the New Hampshire senator had introduced him to the lawyer for the Miners' Union.

Once the news about the opposite testimony before the House Committee came out, what steps were taken to put Sen. Bridges in the right light before the country? Even if Sen. Bridges had recommended Grunewald as an investigator, why was that phase emphasized and almost no criticism visited upon John L. Lewis for conducting the investigation of a judge before whom he and his union had a case pending at that time?

Certainly if it was wrong to recommend an investigator, it must have been even more of an impropriety for the head of a union to hire an investigator to carry on an inquiry about the life of a judge on the federal bench while the union had a case pending before that judge. One has yet to read in the "left wing" press a demand that this phase of the episode be comprehensively explained.

The federal judge is dead. The case is closed, and maybe the congressional committee now considers the whole thing irrelevant, but not so the "left wing" organs which are out to get every United States Senator who has shown himself hostile to Communists in government.

Mr. Bridges is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and an important man in the Republican party today. He has steadfastly fought communistic influences in government.

The "left wingers" also have exposed their hypocrisy in making innuendoes about alleged irregularities in Sen. McCathy's income tax returns. They know full well that, if there had been anything on which he could have been prosecuted, the Truman administration would have filed a case against

Autos Useful as A-Bomb Shelters

By Michael Amrine

First reports on the analysis by Civil Defense experts of the recent atomic - bomb explosions in Nevada disclose several odd, yet understandable, quirks of the mighty blasts. Possibly the most important finding was proof of the theory that unless you are right under the bomb, an automobile is a more or less effective bomb shelter.

These findings were reported by Civil Defense officials at the first showing of slow-motion movies. The film will be edited and released to commercial newsreels as part of the Civil Defense effort to educate the public on the facts of atomic explosions.

Though the house closest to the rougher surface than the rest of the house. In slow motion, one can see thick black smoke pouring from the shutters — then from the clapboards of the house, creeping up the walls and along the roof, in very heavy rolls, like smoke from an oil fire.

These shutters were whitewashed, and apparently the whitewash vaporized into floating charcoal. One shutter miraculously escaped complete destruction, but was still extremely charred. This reporter ran his fingers over it, and the charcoal was a fine dust, as smooth as face powder.

Then, as smoke poured over the roof, the house seemed to burst apart — almost as if there had went on over the back of the house.

The top part of the front fell back down in the front yard. At the side of the house a wooden light pole also burned like a beacon. A metal lamppost alongside it survived.

Dust from the desert floor, splinters and fragments and dust from the house, completely obscure the screen soon after the roof goes in the movie, but by the movement of the dust cloud one can see how the return - shock wave comes back, traveling toward the bomb again. Nothing could demonstrate more clearly how the first effect of the explosion is a tornado wind going one way, which soon returns,

The Once Over

Thoughts on a Convention

The newspaper publishers and editors of America have been meeting in New York this week, affording a close-up study of a hard-working, mentally alert, patriotic and helpful group second to none in the country. They bear greater headaches with less squawking than any bunch we know.

They put more into the job for what they take out than any other business segment. They have been educators, morale builders, pilots, course layers, counsellors, advisers, cheerer-uppers, news-givers and entertainers to the general public since the birth of the nation.

They have acted as everything except baby-sitters in the American home for generations.

Your newspaper provides the cheapest service and gives you the most for your dough of any product on the market. Where else can you get global events, high tide, the starting time of the movie, a line on the national setup, all the local news, the exact minute of sunset, tips on how to bake a cake, what to do about a little girl who won't eat her spinach, a crossword puzzle, the baseball scores, the stock prices and tomorrow's weather forecast for a nickel?

Where else at any price will you find everything from the Coronation and the latest Korean development to the home team's batting averages and the name of the fellow who elopes with the Wiggins Girl?

You hear a newsboys' step on the front porch and in a few minutes you are hep to everything from Mossadegh's latest tantrum and Elizabeth's newest gown to your big city's latest night club shindig and your small town's newest divorce scandal. (With fishing tips, barometer readings, hints to housewives, advice on removing gravy stains from wallpaper and all possible dope on births, deaths and bargain sales thrown in.)

It's a public service even if you don't count the help in locating a lost dog, finding a man to mow the lawn and selling the old ice box, or getting advice on how to remove a wart.

He has to accept harassments and criticisms as part of a pleasure program. His costs of business are jumping, the competition gets hotter by the hour, and his problems multiply like rabbits. But he is always in there pitching.

This notable improvement was one of the most interesting subjects of talks given this week at the Safety Award dinner held under auspices of the Industrial Council of the Marion Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the State Industrial Commission. The percentage of accidents in American factories during the past year amounted to but a small fraction of the percentage recorded before modern safety methods began to develop.

But industry is hoping and striving for more and more safety progress and it's evident that this will be accomplished. It was clearly apparent in talks heard in the Safety Award program Four Marion industrial firms received awards in recognition of their having had no lost-time accidents during 1952. It was the first safety award meeting ever held in Marion and the plan is to make it an annual event. All participants hope and believe that each succeeding year will add more factories to the no-accident list, and that all others will register accident reductions.

It's a magnificent program, one that means not only improved and increased industrial output, but still more important, greater security for workers' lives and limbs.

No Seaway Argument

St. Lawrence seaway backers are overjoyed, it is said, because President Eisenhower has declared it is his intention to support them.

The President's position hardly could have been anything else. His secretary of treasurer, George M. Humphrey, is a determined backer of the project. Every U. S. president, starting with Herber tHoover, has properly reflected the public opinion that there has ceased to be a seaway argument, though there has continued to be a determined and ruthless seaway opposition.

Mr. Hoover once referred to the project, which was begun in 1895, as the "greatest internal improvement yet undertaken on the North American continent." A large part of the work, though the fact is not generally known, has been done.

What chiefly remains to be done now to provide a 27-foot channel from the mouth of the St. Lawrence to Duluth is to overcome 100-odd miles of rapids between Montreal and Ogdensburg, N. Y. Canada will do this on its own initiative, if the United States wants to be left out, providing it is permitted to enter into a suitable contract with New York for development of hydro-electric power. But that, too, is a federal decision — the Federal Power Commission.

The opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway will not have lost its 50-year-old war, until it has lost the final battle. As long as it can stall the remaining work in the St. Lawrence rapids, "the greatest internal improvement yet undertaken on the North American continent" will continue to be only a possibilty.

The average American takes over 18,000 steps a day, says a statistician. And most of us don't know where we're going.

More smiling is done by hard workers, says a doctor. Would you rather be up on your toes or down in the dumps?

Goldbergianitis

By TRUMAN TWILL

When a man has a $45 million monument erected to him while he is still living, his fellow citizens should take note.

Rube Goldberg, the cartoonist, has reached this pinnacle of honor. A few days ago, congressional snoops learned about a $45 million deal for army overcoats which were so complicated and gadget-loaded they were useless.

Here was a garment which did everything. It even contained retractable leggings. Only trouble with it was that the wearer couldn't walk in it for more than a few minutes because the weight bowed his knes.

Ever since Goldberg first roused the risibilities of his countrymen with drawings of woofus - goofus machinery to kill a fly on baby's head, his name has been a household word for contraptions which got out of hand.

Goldbergianitis, under many other names, is a national characteristic. It is not to be marveled at that the army dreamed up an overcoat too heavy and too complex for any human use.

Did you ever look at the control panel of an electric stove;

The interior of an electric refrigerator;

The fine print of an insurance policy;

The organizational chart of the federal government;

The criss-cross and mish - mash of clutter under the hood of an automobile;

The instructions for putting together a knocked-down wardrobe;

The owner's manual for a power lawnmower;

The wiring diagram for an ordinary cottage-small to be occupied by a couple of goofs who don't know how to replace a fuse;

The weird apparatus known as Plumber's Delight which regulates the filling and emptying of a water tank on a water closet;

The instrument board of a modern airplane which is going to be flown by only one human being with only one pair of eyes;

An income-tax blank;

The legal briefs filed in a court action to decide who hit John;

A copy of The Congressional Record;

A dress pattern for something simple to be cut out and sewed together by a make - it - yourself seamstress;

A Christmas-tree holder in the easy - to - store - away version;

The three - dimensional hootnannies which can be depended on, according to the advertisements, to overcome nature's mistakes where the female figure is concerned;

Any of numerous mechanisms for killing flies on Babies' heads in some more complicated fashion than hitting them with flyswatters?

Goldbergianitis is a institution. As long as the army had to piddle away a wad of money on something it couldn't use, it did well to pay a $45 million tribute to Rube Goldberg.

CROSSTOWN — By Roland Coe

"I approve of that slogan. Either way, it'll be a break for the neighborhood."

first atomic bomb exploded in the current Nevada series was blown to bits, the automobile parked behind it is in fair shape today. It was driven, under its own power, away from the scene of the "accident."

The explosion destroyed one house at 3,500 feet and badly damaged another at 7,500 feet.

All the cars exposed to the bombing are drivable today, though many of them have their roofs caved in or their sides dented—in some of them the driver would have to crouch down in his seat or take some other unusual position in order to drive. But mechanically the cars survived.

In the case of the car behind House No. 1, close to the bomb burst, living persons in it would have survived the blast and shock of the bomb, had they had warning and had huddled on the floor of the car. However, if they had thus escaped being knocked on the head, they would nonetheless have died of the effects of atomic radiation.

The Civil Defense Administration has received hundreds of letters complaining about the government "blowing up perfectly good cars" —the correspondents think it a waste of the taxpayers' money to destroy cars, even when the purpose is to study bomb effects. Officials point out, however, that the cars were donated by manufacturers and dealers, at no expense to the government.

The slow-motion movie shows very clearly how the heat of the bomb hits a house before the shock wave does. In the case of house No. 2, the shutters caught fire first, apparently because they had a been a bomb inside it. Many had expected from study of previous reports on bomb damage to find that the house caved in as if a giant hand had pushed down on it. There was some of this effect, but a p- ently in this house the shock wave went through the windows so fast that there also was pressure on the roof from below, as well as above.

One can see the entire roof lift like the roof of a dollhouse. The lower part of the front of the roof somewhat diminished, to the vacuum and suction created by the bomb.

Two bomb shelters in the basement did not suffer any appreciable damage. If real people in the basement had been dug out by a rescue squad soon after the expylosion, and rushed away from the radioactivity in the area, they might well have lived to tell how it feels to be just half a mile from an atomic-bomb explosion.

Paris Party Game

By Gault MacGowan

PARIS

What's your prediction for the state of the world at the end of this year? This is the theme of a new game that is the current rage in Paris.

It's a pad - and - pencil game played at parties or over the coffee and cigars in the sidewalk cafes of the boulevards.

Moscow's spring new look has provided the inspiration. You couldn't have played the game with any zest last year, when there was only one possible prediction: "No change.'

But this year there are chances for both pessimists and optimists.

At a Gaullist political party, where the game was explained, the hostess handed around pads and pencils, asked the $64 question and gave five minutes for each person to make predictions.

"No cheating," she said, wagging a finger at a woman who was looking over her husband's busy hand. "We don't want only the men's opinions."

She collected the pads when time was up; read out the answers.

What happened next was the fun. Fireworks, skyrockets went up, with everyone heatedly arguing in support of his or her opinion.

There was only strength enough to jot down a few answers. The rest was "Well, I hope you're right!" — "You mean you're a sucker for that party line." "Don't be so silly, my dear"— "That's nuts"—"Are you crazy or am I?"

Traditional French politeness did produce a few: "I cannot agree with that," or "That's a most interesting point of view." But on the whole one had the impression of dynamite in the cocktails. A good time was definitely had by all.

Answers were both grave and gay.

"Women's skirts will be shorter, necklines deeper and hats smaller," was one that caused mirth after the following carefully reasoned tabulation:

1—Premier Malenkov will be regarded as a little angel.

2—There will be no European Army and there will be an all-round reduction of armaments.

3—Unemployment will be rife in France, Germany and Italy.

4—The French and Italian Communist parties will gain thousands of new adherents.

5—U.S. opinion will swing to an agreement with Russia.

Another set of forecasts was:

1—Malenkov will suddenly fall ill—probably die!

2—War will end in Korea.

3—The West Germans will have an independent defense force of their own.

Somebody scientifically minded wrote:

There will be no world to worry about. Some Russian Stakhanovite will probably blow us all up trying to emulate American atomic experiments without the know-how.

Women's predictions were weaker than they would be in the United States, because French women do not take the same interest in politics and world movements. One of them just jotted down: "I'll be too busy with another baby to bother."

The hostess, who always was known for saying: "Stalin is leading you all by the nose," however, came out with a new view:

"I forecast no war. I am frankly suspicious of the new set-up, but maybe we should trust the Russians for once. I think we shall have a better new year than we had with Stalin on the throne."

The most unexpected speculation was this one:

"Malenkov will be revealed as a British Intelligence agent named MacMillan, son of a Scot and a Russian woman—who was left behind by the British Army when it ceased intervening in the bolshevic revolution. His orders were to work his way to the top of the Communist party and then switch the party line to the advantage of the British empire."

A hushed silence fell on the room, during which a tall Englishman with a handlebar mustache, who hitherto had been silent, was heard to whisper: "That could be possible, old boy!"

Feel More Americans May Be Freed

Families Take New Hope As POW Trade Continues

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of American families whose loved ones still are prisoners of the enemy in Korea found new hope today.

In the first six days of the repatriation of disabled prisoners, the Communists had exceeded their originally pledged total of 120 Americans by 16. Seventeen were included in yesterday's exchange. And the Reds promised 13 more Americans would be among those returned today.

A proposal to continue the exchange indefinitely was being considered by negotiators at Panmunjom. Some observers there said they thought the recent attitude of the Reds might indicate they would accept such a plan.

As word of the additional releases brought fresh hope to the silent homes where the prayed-for, familiar name has not been heard as among those first freed, the fortunate families combined their prayers of thanksgiving with expressions of hope for others.

"We wish every other mother and father of a boy missing over there could have the same joy as ours," said Mr. and Mrs. Arley D. Rose. Their son, Marine Sgt. Donald A. Rose, 21, had been missing since Oct. 6.

"I hope and pray they can all come home," said Mrs. David Hilycord of Columbus, Ind. Her son, Bill, was shot down on his first bombing mission in 1951.

For some the impact of the good news was almost too much.

Mrs. Bernice Daniel, 22, collapsed when her brother brought her word that her husband, Sgt. James F. Daniel of Covington, Ga., had been freed.

"She had taken his prisonment bravely, but when I told her he had been exchanged, she was so happy she fainted away," the brother, Arthur B. Miller, said. Mrs. Daniel has been living in Alameda, Calif., for a year.

At Redlands, Calif., Mrs. Vera Rose, mother of Sgt. Donald A. Rose, 21, a Marine, gasped "thank God" and burst into tears when she heard the news of her son's release.

Mrs. Margaret Christie, Montezuma, ind., also wept with joy when she learned her husband, M. Sgt. Gilbert Christie, was among those returned last night.

"It's wonderful news, but I won't really believe it until I see him," she said. Christie was captured Nov. 2, 1950, by the Chinese Reds shortly after they entered the war.

cried Mrs. H. W. Muse of Tulsa, when told that her son, Pfc. George W. Rogers, would be coming home soon. "I've been waiting for this hour so long it doesn't seem real."

The wife of Ens. Marvin S. Broomhead, Salt Lake City Navy pilot, was so excited at the news she could hardly talk.

Mrs. Broomhead, who lives with a sister at Banning, Calif., is confined to her bed as the result of an automobile accident. She received word of her husband's liberation from his mother, Mrs. Fay H. Barnard in Salt Lake City, and then heard of it again over the radio.

"She laughed and then she cried," the sister, Mrs. Loretta Blanks, said.

At Morrilton, Ark., Mrs. W. P. Conley was "really happy and wanted to tell everybody about it" when the news came her boy had been repatriated. Her son, Cpl. William L. Conley, had been a prisoner since Dec. 2, 1950.

And she recalled in his last letter home, dated Dec. 2, 1952, he had said ". . . some day I'll be walking up the same old street to the old home."

Ohio Theater Bills Double Feature

"Problem Girls" starring Helen Walker, Ross Elliott and Susan Morrow, and "One Girl's Confession" starring Cleo Moore, Hugo Haas and Glenn Langan, currently are playing through Monday at the Ohio Theater.

The former is the story of a grim mansion, a school for wealthy young women, which actually is a well-guarded cage around a group of psychoneurotic girls sent away from their homes because of their neurotic behavior. The latter tells the story of a resentful blonde who rebels against the fate that forces her to work for the man who robbed her father.

Another double feature is billed for Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Happy Time" starring Charles Boyer and Louis Jourdan, and "Strange Fascination" starring Cleo Moore, Huga Haas and Mona Barrie.

"The Happy Time" is a comedy of a boy's wide-eyed emergence into young manhood. When a young woman enters the household of a French-Canadian family as a maid, she creates havoc, with both the boy and his philandering uncle falling in love with her. "Strange Fascination" is a story about an irresistible blonde charmer, a girl with a strange fascination, and a man who cannot let her alone.

Showing Thursday through Saturday will be "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" starring Donald O'Connor, Jane Frazee, Gloria Jean and Allan Jones, and "Fort Vengeance" starring James Craig, Rita Moreno and Keith Larsen.

"When Johnny Comes Marching Home" is a story about a fight manager whose boxer, the lightweight champion of the world, is drafted. To protect his meal ticket, Bob enlists at the very moment his fighter is rejected. Hope then not only is stuck in the service but loses the champ to his gangster partners.

But, not to be outdone, he latches on to a young buck private with boxing ambitions, portrayed by Mickey Rooney.

Starting Friday will be the technicolor drama, "Hans Christian Andersen," starring Danny Kaye and Farley Granger, and introducig Jeanmaire, distinguished ballerina and new screen star.

Danny Kaye portrays the title role, a story-teller from Odense, who finds romance, heartache and fame in the glamorous city of Copenhagen. As a romantic cobbler, he is torn between his love of telling fairy-tales and his romantic hopes of rescuing a glamorous ballerina from [illegible]

Karl Malden, Rudy Bond and Peg Hillias.

"My Pal Gus," domestic comedy co-starring Richard Widmark, Joanne Dru and Audrey Totter, will be the attraction Thursday through Saturday.

The film tells the story of a millionaire candy manufacturer who is too preoccupied with making money to take much notice of his young son, Gus, whom he loves very much, a young school teacher who understands children, and a scheming wife who sells her so-called mother love for a million dollars.

Marion Bills "Luxury Girls," "Guerrilla Girl"

"Luxury Girls" starring Susan Stephen, Anna Maria Ferrero, Jacques Sernas and Steve Barclay and introducing Marine Vlady, and "Guerrilla Girl" starring Helmut Dantine and introducing Marianna, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Marion Theater.

The former film goes behind the scenes at a swanky continental girls' school and shows the heartbreak and romance that form the girls' lives outside the classroom.

Showing Thursday through Saturday will be "The Naked Spur" and "Old Overland Trail." The former stars James Stewart, Janet Leigh, Robert Ryan and Ralph Meeker, and heading the cast in the latter are Rex Allen and Koko, his miracle horse.

"The Naked Spur" is an adventure-drama of three men who are motivated by greed in joining up to track down a fugitive with a price on his head. In "Old Overland Trail," Rex Allen, working for the Bureau of Indian Affairs out of Washington, D.C., is dispatched to the west to stop the Apache Indians from leaving their reservation and participating in uprisings against emigrant homesteaders.

Ralph T. Lewis to Attend Paris Rotary Convention

Ralph T. Lewis of 600 Vernon Heights Blvd. will represent the Marion Rotary Club as a delegate to the annual International Rotary Convention in Paris, France, May 22-28.

He will serve on a publicity committee of five aboard the French liner Liberte, which will carry many of the Rotarians to Europe. The committee will inform the large group of Rotarians aboard of the special programs and other activities.

The Liberte leaves New York about noon May 15 and is scheduled to land at Le Havre, France, May 21. Rotarians will take a train from there to Paris for the convention. Lewis will leave Marion by train sevral days before the sailing date.

He plans also to witness the coronation of Queen Elizabeth in England June 2. He received a reserved ticket to the event through Rotary International at New York, which arranged to provide tickets for Rotarians wishing to attend.

Following the coronation, Lewis will fly from Paris to Madrid, Spain, where he will begin a four-week tour of Europe.

Lewis is an avid golfer and the trip is mainly for the purpose of playing golf on some more well known golf courses. He has played on many major courses in the United States and many more in Europe.

Lewis has games scheduled at the original St. Andrews course at Edinburgh, Scotland, the oldest and most famous course in the world, and at a course near Cologne, Germany, and at the famous Saint Cloud course near Paris.

This will not be his first Rotary International convention. He attended one at Rio de Janeiro four years ago and several others before that. At that time, he played the famous Gaveau course there.

He has golfed on the Mid Ocean course in Bermuda and at courses in Jamica and Central America. Lewis has been golfing for about 30 years.

Lewis will leave from South Hampton, England, July 2 aboard the United States, the largest ship afloat, back to the United States.

Plan New Subdivision In Bucyrus This Year

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—A new subdivison in this city's northwest section may be completed this year, city officials reported today.

The subdivision is to be known as the Fairhaven Addition and will contain 27 pre-fabricated homes, ranging in price from $9,000 to $12,000, according to Herbert C. Brauchla of Fostoria, a representative of National Homes, Inc.

A semi-circular court will be constructed at one end of the addition. Most of the lots will be 50 by 141 feet with the exception of those fronting on the court, which has a 76-foot radius, increasing the size of the lots.

City council already has given a first reading to an ordinance accepting the plat and construction of the homes is expected to start as soon as the plat gets final approval, according to

McCarthy, N.Y. Editor Still Feuding

WASHINGTON (AP)—The feud between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and New York Post editor James A. Wechsler seemed hot as ever today at a closed door hearing.

Wechsler, blazing mad at being called before McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee yesterday for close door questioning, termed the action "attempted intimidation" because his newspaper has been lambasting McCarthy editorially. He said he told McCarthy that "a lot of newspapers would resent the threat."

McCarthy, pointing to Wechsler's one time membership in the Young Communist League, insisted he had called in the editor "not as a newspaperman but as an author" whose books the government placed in libraries overseas.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash), the only other subcommittee member present at yesterday's closed hearing, said he believed Wechsler "made a good statement of the position he has taken against communism since he left the Young Communist League."

Jackson said Wechsler's testimony "seems to be a pretty well documented case of writing articles that are anti-Communist." Jackson said the subcommittee is not investigating the press and has never been authorized to do so.

McCarthy said his questions challenged whether Wechsler's "long time opposition to every head of the (House) Un-American Activities Committee investigating Communists was strong support for the editor's claims that he renounced communism in 1937, at the age of 22. He said he did not raise any question about a series of 17 articles the Post carried last year assailing him.

Air Collision Kills 6 Over Long Island

B-29, Thunderjet Tangle on Secret Experimental Flight

WESTHAMPTON, N. Y. (AP)—A secret experimental flight by a B29 Superfort and an F84 Thunderjet ended in flaming disaster yesterday, with the two craft carrying all their six crewmen to death.

The planes, flying together when they suddenly burst into flames high above Long Island, apparently collided. However, investigators said no one on the ground actually saw them come into contact.

Air Force spokesmen said the flight was of a "classified nature." The service denied an earlier report that the bomber was refueling the fighter in flight at the time of the crash. However, no other details of the mission were disclosed.

The pilot of the jet and the five men aboard the Superfort were from the Wright Air Development Center at Dayton, O.

Both planes had taken off from a field at the Republic Aircraft Corp. in Farmingdale, N. Y., and winged eastward about 50 miles until they were over Great Peconic Bay, an arm of Long Island Sound cutting into the island about 100 miles from New York City.

The B29 hit the waters of the bay near the southern shore and sank, leaving only an oil slick. The jet fell into some woods on the south shore and burned.

None of the bodies of the bomber crew have been recovered. The jet pilot was thrown clear of his plane.

A Coast Guard boat patrolled the bay through the night, and planes were scheduled to join it in a search today for the bomber.

The Air Force identified the jet pilot as Maj. John Davis, 32, of Dayton, O., a test pilot from the Wright center. He was on temporary assignment with the Republic Corp., which owned the jet.

Crewmen on the bomber, which was on detached service from Wright were identified as: Capt. J. J. Vapenick, about 30, the pilot, of Cleveland; Capt. H. C. Mc Clanahan, 30, the co-pilot, of Dayton; T. Sgt. John R. Clarkson, 31, of Austin, Texas; M. Sgt. Claude Chemp, 34, of Martins Ferry, O., and [illegible] of Purchase of two new automobiles for use of the Marion County sheriff's office was authorized Thursday at a meeting of county commissioners.

There were no litter cases among the Americans, British and Turks exchanged Saturday. Some limped slightly, but otherwise all appeared to be in fairly good physical condition.

The Americans included a Navy fighter pilot, an Air Force enlisted man, four Marines and 11 soldiers.

Everything was in readiness for the return of the top-level truce negotiators at 11 a.m. Sunday (9 p.m. Saturday, EST). Originally scheduled for Saturday, the meeting was postponed one day at the Communists' request.

Only one major issue stands in the way of an armistice. The U. N. Command refuses to return some 50,000 Chinese and North Korean prisoners who have said they do not want to go home. The Communists have insisted on the return of all prisoners of war.

Red China's Premier Chou En-lai proposed last month that prisoners who refuse repatriation be turned over to a neutral country pending a decision on their future. He made it clear, however, that the Communists expect all of them ultimately to return home.

The U. N. Command in agreeing to resume the truce talks suggested Switzerland as the neutral, but re-emphasized that there can be no modification of its stand against forced repatriation. The talks were broken of last fall after failure to settle this point.

As the transfer of disabled prisoners continued Saturday, another 38 Allied repatriates were flown from Korea to Japan for hospital treatment before returning to the United States.

Meanwhile, the U. N. prisoner of war command said Chinese

Prison Sunday Service Set

Salvation Army To Visit Training School

Members of the Salvation Army of Marion will take part in the 38th annual Prison Sunday observance by visiting the Marion Training School and holding services at 8 a.m., it was announced by Captain Mary Nisiewicz.

The group will be led by Lt. Lorraine Sacks, and music will be by the Army Band, The address will be by John H. Clark, Marion attorney and a member of the salvation Army Advisory Board.

Linked with the work carried on throughout the year by the Men's and Women's Prison Bureaus, the day is set aside by all Salvationists to bring an extra measure of cheer and hope to those in penal institutions.

More than 5,000 of the Army's best bandsmen, songsters and speakers in the United States will be dispatched to 2,000 penitentiaries, jails, state farms, reformatories, and military prisons. They will hold religious services and musical programs and visit with prisoners seeking personal counsel.

Begun in 1885 in this country, The Salvation Army's year-round work with prisoners takes the form of weekly religious services, personal counseling, assistance upon parole, and material aid to families of inmates. Last year countless thousands of prisoners gained new hope from the services held by Army members within the institutions, from visits and help with their personal problems, and from the assistance the Salvation Army gave their families on the "outside."

Also, Sunday, May 1, the Salvation Army Marion Corps will take charge of the 10 a.m. service at the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville. Brigadier and Mrs. Paul D. Seiler of Cincinnati will be guests.

He was being kept strictly to the rules. About 7 a. m. when Morse put his foot on the chair pulled up beside him, Sen. Purtell (R—Conn), acting Republican leader, said rules require a speaker keep both feet on the floor. Morse complied, saying "I will proceed in order."

Morse, who broke with the Republicans in last fall's election campaign to become an independent, sipped orange juice, tea, coffee and boullion to keep up his strength. He also nibbled on crackers and gulped some tomato soup.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the GOP leader who has vowed to break the filibuster he has charged to opponents of the bill, left the floor at midnight. Shortly before, he had sent out for the newspapers and worked a crossword puzzle.

Earlier in the evening, Taft had stretched out for a few minutes on a sofa in the rear of the Senate chamber in full view of spectators.

Sen. Purtell (R-Conn), who took over the leader's chair after Taft's exit, went Morse one better by having a pot of coffee placed on his desk and pouring himself cups as time wore on.

Presiding over the Senate through most of the long hours and occasionally munching a chocolate bar was Sen. Carlson (R-Kan).

since the President made his appeal in speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Referring directly to Eisenhower's remarks, the Soviet statement accused him of trying to threaten the USSR with atomic war.

(Eisenhower said the alternatives to true peace endeavors were: At worst "atomic war," at best, "a life of perpetual fear and tension.")

The statement fully agreed with Eisenhower's plea for a lessening of tension and building peace but it accused him of not being very consistent in his remarks.

"In his address," it declared, "the President of the United States for some reason considered it possible to connect his proposals of peace with a whole series of preliminary conditions presented by him to the Soviet Union, although these claims are not reinforced by corresponding obligations from the side of the United States."

Making it clear it did not subscribe to or agree to many of these "conditions," the Soviet statement pointed out that Russia, too, has claims and ideas about what should be done.

But Stock Market Pulls Back

Business Trend Upward

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business goes in one direction today and the stock market in another.

Most all business reports show the trend still upward, with prospects good for some time ahead, and many company executives oozing optimism.

Sales are up for many, earnings are up for most, the total of dividend payments is higher, and new orders are still coming in at most factories.

But jittery stock traders — supposedly trying to assess future earnings and dividend prospects—have knocked out about two-thirds of the price gains made in the confidence boom that got under way before election day. The Associated Press stock price average is back to where it was just after the election that gave such a boost to business confidence.

The bears appear to think that the signs point to deflation. The Korean peace talks are only a part of this. Higher interest rates and a tightening money market are also cited as indications that inflation's day is over and a mild deflation may be coming.

Higher yields on corporate and government bonds and on mortgages are believed by some to be having an effect. They suggest these higher yields are attracting some money away from common stocks.

The dearer cost of money may also in time put a brake on plant expansion plans, others argue. Labor leaders join in this today with a protest that dearer money may cut building and other business plans and thus in time bring on unemployment.

But employment at the moment appears on the increase, with the season for outdoor jobs getting under way. And as long as employment is high and pay checks fat, economists argue that retail trade will stay good.

Most retailers scored gains this week over their year ago sales figures, Dun & Bradstreet reports today, although it notes that merchants are "more circumspect about granting credit than in recent months."

The Federal Reserve Board reports department store sales for the year to date are averaging five per cent higher than last year.

Most chain stores and mail order houses show sharp increases in sales during March over a year ago.

leaders present.

Mrs. Falor spoke on "The Greatest Question." In part she said "Man has not outlived this question, "What shall I do with Jesus?' There are those who have heartaches, burdens, and problems. There is a way out for you. We will never face another question like this. The Christian's God is not dead. He is the most radiant personality in the universe. We have to make up our minds whether we are going to follow Jesus. "Sometimes we have lost our song, we have lost our note of victory. He is our healing for our every need. He can do more than carry our burden of sin, He can carry all of our burdens."

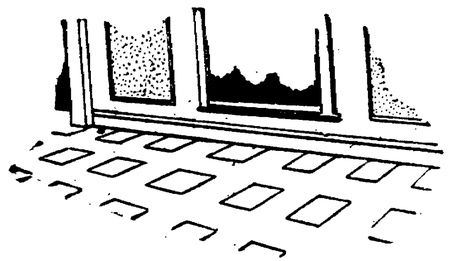
Caring for an Asphalt Tile Floor

There are a lot of asphalt tile floors in this country and it can be said that they are excellent floors. There is a certain procedure for maintaining them just as there is for maintaining tile, linoleum or wood floors. What applies to one material does not apply to another. Therefore, if you want your asphalt tile floor to look its best and last indefinitely as it should, simply treat it properly.



There is nothing complicated about the correct treatment. In the first place, an occasional washing with warm water and suds of a neutral soap is all that is required to keep asphalt tile floors clean and attractive. Of course, the floor should be rinsed after the washing as you rinse anything else, and it should be dry mopped.

When it comes to the use of high-pressure "cleaners" containing kerosene, benzine, turpentine, oils or highly alkaline compounds, just stay away from them.

If you want a high finish on your asphalt tile floor, you can have it by using any water emulsion wax floor polish. There is nothing odd or difficult about this. It can be bought in any hardware or department store. It is as easy to apply as any other floor wax and can be buffed and polished to as high a gloss as you want. Do not use varnish, lacquers, shellacs or plastic finishes.

To get the best service out of your floor, see that the chairs and other pieces of furniture are equipped with smooth, flat protectors on the ends of the legs. This applies to any floor, not only to asphalt tile. You cannot expect a floor to look its best when it is subjected to gouging, scratching leg-ends. You get out of any material exactly what you put into it in care. You can overwind a five-hundred-dollar watch as easily as a dollar watch.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Cigaret Burn on Table

Q: A cigaret fell unnoticed from an ash tray and burned my mahogany table. Would you please tell me the best way to repair the damage?

A: Carefully scrape away the charred area with a razor blade, sharp knife or "O" steel wool. Then wipe clean with turpentine. When dry, touch up with several layers of varnish, using a small watercolor brush. If it has been necessary to scrape down to bare wood and through any mahogany stain, you will first have to put on some more stain of the same shade before applying the layers of varnish. Enough layers of varnish must be applied so that the rspaired area is level with the resi of the table surface.

Sweating Cold Water Pipes

Q: In my basement I have a pool table above which are some cold water pipes. In the summertime these pipes sweat and drop on the table. Is there any way I can stop this condition?

A: If appearance is important, the cold water pipes can be covered with an anti-sweat pipe covering that is handled by plumbing supply houses. Should you desire to keep down costs, cover the cold water pipes with several thicknesses of newspaper and tie them in place. Or you can cut burlap into three-inch-wide strips and wrap two or three thicknesses around the pipe. This will provide sufficient insulation to prevent humid air from condensing on the cold pipes.

Septic Tank

Q: Would like your comment on the proper care of a new septic tank, and a dry well combination. There is no grease trap and all water from the septic tank goes to the dry well. I have been told that a periodic yeast treatment helps germination. If so, how much and how often should this be used? I would also like suggestions on the proper care in order to eliminate the possibility of further trouble.

A: I strongly advise the installation of a grease trap between the kitchen sink and the septic tank. An accumulation of this kind in the septic tank will interfere with the proper function by keeping air away from sewage matter. Also, if any oils or greases flow into the drainage field or into a dry well, such as yours, the earth becomes coated and will reduce the seepage of the liquid into the soil. Of course, the grease trap will have to be cleaned periodically in order to have it function properly. Yeast is not necessary to clean the bacterial action in the septic tank; in fact, the use of this substance has been disproved by several authorities. After several years of usage it would be wise to have a septic tank man examine the contents to see if the accumulation of insoluble sewage matter needs to be removed.

Y Students Elect Model Legislature

Massillon Youth Named Governor In State Meeting

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Votes for 18-year-olds and compulsory high school courses on sex and marriage seem almost sure of approval by the Ohio YMCA model legislature today or Sunday.

All candidates for governor, including the winner, Walter D. Gundel of Massillon, endorsed measures which would lower the voting age and require sex education.

The marriage bill pending before the young lawmaker proposes it be on a "non-scientific" level. Proponents included a clause giving the state the right to withhold funds from any school which failed to provide a course in sex and marriage. It also would provide no student could be graduated from high school unless he had received a passing mark in the course.

Gundel campaigned on a platform of votes for 18-year-olds, increased old age benefits, a strong conservation program and tighter traffic laws.

He defeated William Haller of Ironton, Lowell Ferguson of Toledo, Dorothy Mullen of Fairborn and George Smith of Columbus. Gundel is a senior at Massillon High School. He is state president of the Hi-Y Club, sponsored by the YMCA.

Other officers elected were Ed Stanford of East Liverpool, lieutenant governor; Jim Simakis of Cleveland, speaker of the House; Lois Bricker of East Palestine, clerk of the Senate; Ronnie Klein of Columbus, clerk of the House; Charles Collins II of Cincinnati, chaplain of the Senate; and John Buchanan of Steubenville, chaplain of the House.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche spoke and Attorney General C. William O'Neill presided at a banquet at Ohio State University Friday night.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

MENDING FENCES is no monopoly of the politicians. Every home owner with pickets to paint, every farmer with barbed wire to string, every man with a chain fence rusting away is familiar with this spring chore.

It's easy to sing "Don't Fence Me In," but in many places a fence is virtually part of the house. Although essentially utilitarian—to keep animals away and little children from running away—a fence also can be used merely for decoration.

The only hazard in making a fence part of your architectural design is the risk of cuteness. Maybe you first met your wife swinging on a gate. But that doesn't mean you can duplicate that old New England fence around your new glass flat-top and still have it look right.

However, there are some places where a fence can add much to appearances whether the enclosure is needed or not. A neighbor of mine built a so-called ranch style house in the middle of an acre. Frankly, it looked rather lonesome. Then he put a rough-cut post and rail fence around the property. That changed the entire scene. His fence serves no utilitarian purpose, but it certainly ties things together with a sense of fitness.

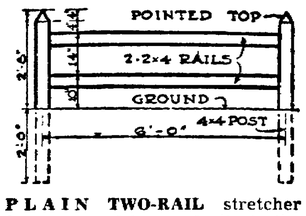
—:—

ON SMALL PLOTS it's hard to beat split chestnut fences for screens. California makes various smart uses of redwood and for its durability redwood is excellent for fences anywhere. Throughout the South and up through the Abe Lincoln country split rail fences, buck style and any style, are especially fitting.

But intermixed with all the others from Labrador to Laredo, the white picket fence always holds its own. This is a Colonial heritage. It came from the English cottage and it rhymes with little white houses with green shutters. And white houses still swing the votes.



PLAIN TWO-RAIL stretcher fence, second in popularity to the picket fence.

Of course, picket fences cost money today because of the price of lumber. But the do-it-yourself fashion, which has been speeded up by labor costs, partly offsets that expense and gives the handy man a healthy outlet for his energy.

YOU CAN BUY fence pickets ready made and bundled at lumber supply houses. They come in several standard lengths and widths. You can select picket tops in four or five patterns, or you can shape them to suit. It's easy to design your own, using simple straight saw cuts at various angles, boring holes for added decoration, rounding corners and whatnot.

Here are a few tips on building a picket fence:

Most fences of this type are 3 to 4 feet high.

Spaces between pickets usually equal the width of each picket.

For added privacy, making the fence serve as a screen, pickets can be placed only an inch apart.

Posts are placed no more than 8 feet apart when using standard 2x4 stock for stringers—meaning the horizontal members between posts. Your pickets will be nailed to these stringers.

Regular 4x4s, about 5 feet long, are adequate for posts. This length allows a 2-foot anchorage underground. Dip the parts to be buried, using creosote or other wood preservatives. If the posts are set in concrete it is wise to dip the post ends in hot roofing tar. This not only seals the wood against moisture but also provides a bond between the wood and concrete.

To avoid rust stains, no matter how much you paint a fence, use aluminum nails. Aluminum, of course, never rusts.

THIS BRINGS UP the interesting development of aluminum chain-link fencing. Although this material weighs only about a third as much as common steel fencing, it provides a strong and sure barrier where a purely utili tarian fence is needed. You can but it in rolls, 36 to 144 inches high.

If you ever saw anyone spray painting a chain-link fence and incidentally spraying all the shrubbery and trees with aluminum paint in the process, you'd quickly see one advantage of using aluminum metal. Another advantage is freedom from infection from scratches and rust.

In fact, the durability of aluminum is something to consider in fencing. Frank Nichols of the Nichols Wire & Aluminum Co., Davenport, Ia., tells us that a chain-link aluminum fence can be expected to last 20 years or more.

"Industry writes it off on a 30-year basis," he says.

Neimeyer Cited For Contribution To Conservation

Oliver "Ollie" Neimeyer of Prospect, veteran game protector, was honored recently with a certificate of appreciation from the Ohio State Journal at the second annual Journal Outdoor Night at Memorial Hall in Columbus.

Neimeyer was presented a plaque "In recognition of a half-cemtury of outstanding contribution to the conservation and restoration of wild life and natural resources" in Ohio from Sid R. Phillips, Journal director of public relations.

The event was attended by some 5,000 sportsmen, their wives, sons, and daughters. Movies of Ohio wildlife were shown.

Neimeyer, who has headquarters in Marion County and works in 18 counties in district five of Ohio, has been a state game protector since 1916. He was appointed to the position following the death of his father, Conrad, who had been a game protector since 1904. Neimeyer had worked with his father since 1908.

He will be 70 next September and a Civil Service requirement will force him to retire next year. He can work until the first of July.

Neimeyer's wife, Lulu, served as a state game protector from 1918 to 1924 as an "extra" to Neimeyer until requirements were changed.

Neimeyer has received many awards, mostly on the movies he makes of wildlife. He carries a camera with him wherever he is in the field and thus has many fine technicolor wildlife movies and "once in a lifetime" shots of wildlife. Neimeyer is known for his fine technicolor and wildlife movies and has shown them to clubs throughout Ohio and in adjoining states. He started making films in 1935 and now has some 30 to 40 400-foot reels on wildlife.

Duke University, then Trinity, played its first baseball game in 1889 with the Winston - Salem YMCA. The game ended in a 10-10 tie. It was called at the end of eight innings due to rain.

Yankees Finding Range Early in Drive for Fifth Pennant

Nip Senators, 4-1, for Fourth Win in Row

Phillies Increase National League Lead to Full Game

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sportswriter

Just how good are the 1953 New York Yankees? Nobody knows yet, but of the first 10 games they appear to be finding the task of winning their fifth straight pennant the easiest of the lot.

Riding a four game winning streak, the Yanks lead the American League by two games. They've won eight and lost just two to the same clubs that beat them in five of the first nine a year ago.

The Yankees of 1952 floundered through the first month and it wasn't until late May that they climbed above the .500 mark to stay. But this season only Alex Kellner, the Philadelphia lefthander, has found their number.

Kellner, who became the first three game winner in the majors this season by whipping Boston yesterday, shut out New York on opening day and came back five days later to repeat the whitewashing—something that hadn't happened to a Yankee team since 1934.

Against everybody else the Yanks have made balance pay off—just enough hitting to go with reasonably good pitching to come out on the long end of the scores.

Yesterday's 4-1 victory over Washington was a good example. The fellows the Yanks usually look to for power—Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and old John Mize—went hitless. So rookie third baseman Loren Babe and Gene Woodling, the hustling outfielder, chipped in with homers and Eddie Lopat added to the attack with a double, later scoring the tie breaking run in the fifth.

Lopat scattered eight Senators hits in winning for the second time this season.

The St. Louis Browns, who had been the Yankees nearest rivals, dropped back a game by losing, 3-0, to the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland defeated Detroit, 4-1, and Philadelphia downed Boston, 7-2.

Rosen's First Homer Helps Garcia Win

Tribe Downs Tigers, 4-1; Dropo Spoils Bid for Shutout

CLEVELAND (AP)—Early Wynn, the Cleveland Indians' chunky righthander, hasn't lost to the Detroit Tigers since 1950 and today, in the first ladies' day game of 1953, he will try to make it 10 in a row over the last-placers.

Against him will be southpaw Hal Newhouser who hurled the game Wynn lost 5-3 to Detroit on Sept. 6, 1950. It will be the first start for Newhouser who has been idle for two weeks with a pulled leg muscle.

Mike Garcia, aided by a two-run homer by Al Rosen, beat the Tigers 4-1 Friday night in the opener of the four-game series. It was the first 1953 victory for Mike, and only a 410-foot homer by Walt Dropo in the seventh spoiled the shutout.

No other Tiger got beyond second base as Garcia doled out a double to Jim Delsing and seven singles and gave only one walk.

Rosen's initial 1953 homer came after Art Houtteman, starter and loser, had walked Doby. Before that second inning ended the Tribe added another to go in front 3-0, Bill Glynn got the first of three singles which—with a walk—gave him a perfect night at the plate. Harry Simpson made first on shortstop Harvey Kuenn's error, and Garcia's base hit brought Glynn home.

After Mitchell and Larry Doby had walked in the third, Glynn singled again to bring in Cleveland's final run.

Harding Beats Bucyrus, 7-1, In Diamond Tilt

Harding High School baseballers clipped Bucyrus, 7-1, Friday afternoon at Lincoln Park behind the four-hit pitching of John McKinstry.

The Redmen scored their only tally in the fourth inning on a single, an error on a pickoff attempt, a wild pitch and a fly to center field.

Pete Howison's charges scored three runs in the first inning, a pair in the second and added two insurance runs in the fourth.

The locals got off to a rough start. In the first and second innings, the first two Bucyrus batters reached base. Double plays in both innings helped McKinstry get through.

Eddie Morse, Harding's shortstop, celebrated his 18th birthday a little late as he sparked the Prexy attack. He collected three hits in four trips to the plate to lead the 12-hit assault. Ed was 18 on April 18. McKinstry added two for three and Geissler hit for two of four. Morse and McKinstry each drove in two runs. Red Emmons, Geissler and Chapman each added single RBI's.

Harding is scheduled against Delaware today at 1 p.m. in a doubleheader at Lincoln Park and will make its appearance in the Central District Tournament Friday, May 1, at 4 p.m. It will meet the winner of the Washington Court House-Grandview game at Grandview Wednesday. Harding, which drew a first round bye, will play at the winner's diamond. Tourney action opens Wednesday at the diamonds of the home teams.

Pete Howison's nine, 2-2-1 for the season, will play the winner of the Newark-Columbus South clash at Lincoln Park Monday, May 4, if it survives its opening assignment. Newark and Columbus South are scheduled Friday at Newark.

A win in its opening tourney game would mean Harding would have to call off its scheduled game with Galion Monday, May 4. Harding has nine games remaining after this week end, but there would be no other conflictions due to the tournament, Howison says.

Harding was eliminated from the tourney in its first start last year. Bexley was a 3-2 victor in extra innings at Lincoln Park.

Referee Target of Millions

TV Fans Lodge Protests Over Collins Battering

BOSTON (AP)—Millions in the nation's televised boxing audience continued seething with indignation today over the manner in which lightweight champion Jimmy Carter was permitted to dispose of Boston's Tommy Collins, an amazingly courageous and astoundingly rash challenger.

After Carter knocked down Collins 10 times in 11 minutes, 28 seconds to gain a four-round technical knockout victory in their scheduled 15-round bout Friday night at the Boston Garden, outraged protests were heard almost everywhere television reaches. Only Boston was blacked out in the nation.

The direct target of the public fury was Referee Tommy Rawson, a highly competent lightweight battler in his own right about two decades ago and now a successful Cambridge contractor. The two members of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission at ringside also drew sharp criticism from widely spead TV viewers.

But the victim of the most savage battle ever televised, Collins, himself, supported Rawson's officiating with the very first words he uttered upon reaching his dressing room.

"Of course, I don't think Rawson should have stopped the fight earlier," the gallant Collins said through puffed lips. "It was for the world championship. Why should they have stopped it?"

The consensus of the Rawson critics, one of the most outspoken being President George Barton of the National Boxing Association, an actual eyewitness, was that Rawson erred in permitting Collins to suffer so many knockdowns.

"It was the worst exhibition of boxing officiating I have seen in 50 years," Barton said. "I can't understand why the referee permitted Collins to take such a beating. The bout should have been stopped after he had been knocked down for the third or fourth time in the third round."

"No blow that knocked Collins down was a flush punch. He was knocked down every time by 'feel-out' punches." Rawson explained.

"I never felt at any time that Collins was in danger of being into the ring after the challenger toppled for the 10th time.

It is likely many in the nationwide television audience would have been amazed if they had been able to view Collins in his dressing room. Less than five minutes after he had been guided from the ring, Collins had showered without assistance and was able to discuss the wrecking of his championship hopes in lucid fashion.

But his face was battered and his left eye almost closed.

Words such as "murder," "slaughter," "atrocious," "pitiful," "disgusting," "brutal," and "gruesome" were used freely by TV watchers who swamped newspapers and television stations across the country with telephone calls.

Switchboards of newspapers in Boston, Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco, New Haven, Dallas, Memphis, New Orleans, Milwaukee, Denver, Cincinnati and scores of other cities throughout the U. S. were swamped by calls. Many newspaper had to shut off calls to their sports' departments.

In the National League the Philadelphia Phillies extended their lead to a full game by whipping Pittsburgh, 5-3, on the two-hit pitching of veteran Jim Konstanty. Brooklyn smothered New York, 12-4. St. Louis at Chicago and Cincinnati at Milwaukee were rained out.

Mike Garcia, one of Cleveland's 22-game winners last season, won his first game this year as he weathered a nine hit Detroit attack. Walt Dropo's seventh inning home run produced the only Tiger tally.

Gene Bearden, a Brownie castoff, starred in the White Sox victory in St. Louis. He came in for Lou Kretlow after St. Louis had loaded the bases in the first inning on walks with only one out and shut out the Browns on three hits. Virgil Trucks was the loser.

Boston managed to break Kellner's string of scoreless innings at 21 2-3 when George Kell doubled home Dick Gernert with two out in the fourth but the Arizona southpaw was the master the rest of the way. Eddie Robinson, who came to the A's from the White Sox during the winter, came through with four hits, including a home run.

Konstanty, making his first appearance this year, had a no hitter going for Philadelphia until Danny O'Connell singled with two out in the seventh.

In beating the Giants, the Dodgers scored in bunches—four runs in the fourth and six in the sixth. Roy Campanella's three-run homer was the big blow in the fourth while in the sixth the Dodgers got only three hits but were aided by two errors, a wild pitch and four walks.

Toledo Sox Down Columbus, 5-2

By The Associated Press

Indianapolis' Indians bounced back into the American Association's top spot Friday night with an 11-6 pasting of a jittery Charleston crew.

Seven of the 11 runs the Indians got off Dick Fowler and Clarence Beers were unearned, including two knocked in by Milt Nielson's pinch grand slam homer in the fourth inning.

In Friday's only other game, the Toledo Sox halted a three-game losing streak with a late-inning rally that produced a 5-2 victory over Columbus. Columbus played out the game under protest after Sox Manager Tommy Holmes in violation of league rules, disputed a ball-and-strike decision in the second inning.

Kansas City at Minneapolis and Louisville at St. Paul were postponed because of rain.

Hank Marino of Milwaukee, who was elected "Bowler of the Last Half Century," has rolled 11 perfect 300 games in league play.

North-South In Final 36 Holes

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Six-foot, four-inch Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., and five-eight Mal Galletta of St. Albans, N. Y., each gunning for his second North and South Amateur golf championship, met today in the 36-hole finals of the 53rd annual tournament.

Campbell earned his finals place by throwing a three under par performance at Bill Hyndman, Abington, Pa., in Friday's semi-finals. Galletta, meanwhile, had to win the last two holes with two gorgeous shots for an uphill one up victory over Bob Cochran, St. Louis.

Redlegs Take Beating From Weatherman

Rain, Temperature Drop Brings About Sixth Cancellation

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs now have lost one decision to Milwaukee, one to Chicago, one to St. Louis, and six to the weatherman.

And since they have two victories, it doesn't take much of a mathematician to figure out that their record, weatherwise, is 5-6.

The latest postponement came Friday, when a heavy mid - day rain, followed by a 20-degree drop in the temperature, forced Milwaukee officials to postpone the first of a scheduled four-game series with Cincinnati.

Hermie Wehmeier, who hasn't thrown a ball in competition in more than a week and hasn't yet figured in a 1953 decision, was Manager Rogers Hornsby's choice to try again in today's scheduled single game. Either Lefty Warren Spahn (1-1) or Johnny Antonelli is to start for the Braves.

Harding Wins Fourth Crown at Fremont Relays

Harding's track squad bucked rain and a cold breeze from Lake Erie Friday at Fremont in racing to its fourth straight title in the Fremont Relays.

Coach Ken Somerlot's thinclads piled up 77 points. Their closest rival was Toledo DeVilbiss with 42½. Fremont Ross racked up 30½ markers for third place and fourth went to Fostoria with 27½. Port Clinton with 23 and Toledo Clay with 22½ rounded out the field.

The meet opened with the appearance of a close battle. The shotput was the first event run off and the Prexies failed to place but Ronnie Reed helped the locals when he came in with six big points in winning the pole vault.

Jim Zeigler kept Harding moving with a third place in the high jump and the locals' score began climbing when Jack Boxwell and Bill Bailey scored a one-two sweep in the discus. By this time, Harding and DeVilbiss had turned the meet into a two-team affair.

Harding lost a little ground by being shutout in the 120-yard high hurdles but Jack Garver came back to win the 100-yard dash for the locals. Fred Price and Gene Monroe scored a one-two in the mile run and Gary Ballinger and Frank Green copped the two top spots in the broad jump. Those points turned the meet into a walk for the Prexies.

Larry Clinger added to the total with a first in the 440. Frank Green filled in for Jack Andrews in that event and scored a fifth. Andrews suffered a slight ankle sprain on his way to school Friday.

Bill Whittington and Fred Price put on a tight race in the 880 to give the locals the top two spots. Whittington led all the way and won with a slight margin over Price. The mile relay team copped its event when Whittington beat off the challenge of the DeVilbiss anchor man to win by a yard margin. Jim Saiter, Fred Hazen and Frank Green were other members of the team.

King filled in for Jack Garver in the 220-yard dash and came in second in 23.5 in a race around a curve. King subbed for Garver while he rested a sore leg.

Fred Price was the high scorer for the Prexies with 10 markers.

Somerlot will take 24 tracksters to Delaware today for competition in the annual Ohio Wesleyan Relays.

Funeral Held For Prof. H. E. Huber, Ex-Dean at ONU

Funeral services for Prof. Harvey Evert Huber, 69, a former dean of the liberal arts college at Ohio Northern University at Ada, were held Friday afternoon. His death occurred suddenly Tuesday night at his home in Ada. The services were held in Lehr Auditorium on the campus to accomodate the large number of students, alumni, friends and townspeople who attended. Among those present from Marion was Mrs. Bert Swope of 328 Marion Ave., a niece.

An instructor at Ohio Northern 40 years, and dean for 32, Prof. Huber came to the university in 1913. He was still head of the department of biology at the time of his death, though last year he resigned his position of dean of liberal arts, a position he had held since 1920. He had taught his usual classes Tuesday and had mowed the lawn at his home prior to his collapse and death, and had been apparently in usual good health.

Born in Bluffton March 19, 1884, he was a son of Jacob Daniel and Nancy Rayle Huber. Handbills and newspaper advertisements warned pet owners to keep their dogs home during the three-day drive. Police, loaded for dog, patrolled the streets and alleys for three days and three nights, finding an occasional wandering cur but none of the "wolf-packs."

Once the "hunting season", was over, the truth came out. The town's small boys had rounded up all the stray dogs they could find, tied them to trees in the woods and fed them for three days.

The next night, the packs were out again, in full cry.

clarification was in order.

Two types of warnings are released by forecasters. The first is announced when weather conditions are ripe for tornado development. A second warning is released when an actual twister is spotted.

"There is no reason for persons to become panic-stricken when an initial warning is issued," the bureau spokesman said, "but certain precautions should be taken."

These include taking occasional glances at the western sky, since tornadoes usually move in from the west, and keeping tuned to a local radio station.

Weathermen point out that tornadoes, unlike hurricanes, are sudden storms that cannot be accurately forecast. The best that modern weather forecasters can do is pinpoint areas where conditions are favorable to development of the dreaded twisters.
